

Vesuvius Erupted

It all started on the 24th August 79AD. There was a city, which was called Pompeii and there was a girl who was called Livia. She had a best friend and he was called Tranio. In the distance, there was a magnificent mountain which was called Mount Vesuvius. Everyone loved where they lived because it was relaxing and peaceful. However, the mountain (Mount Vesuvius) kept on rumbling and grumbling, minute by minute also the people just thought that it was nothing and didn't take it seriously.

Livia and Tranio always ran up and down the cobbled streets trying to catch dogs (which they thought was very fun). They played a game every day, which was called knuckle bones, next to a stunning fountain. Livia worked in a bakery with her mam and Tranio worked a little with his dad. His dad was a fisherman and he caught about 15 fishes a day. Livia and Tranio went to the fountain and played their usual game. There was a mighty roar but they just sang the song rumble down tumble down here we go again.

In the blink of an eye, black ash started spurting out of the top of Mount Vesuvius. They could just see the birds going to the forest. It is very unusual for the birds to go to the forest because they like the sea very much. The mountain, (Mount Vesuvius), had flames bursting out of the side of it. The citizens started running terrifyingly to try and get away but most of them died. Lava started to rapidly fire on the beautiful city of Pompeii and it was all destroyed. Livia and Tranio got away on Tranio's dad's boat but they nearly died because of the ash and the poisonous gas.

Twenty five years later, Livia and Tranio were still together and they visited Pompeii. Livia said, "It was very beautiful."

Tranio said, "I agree with you but now it's destroyed."

Livia said, "I miss everyone."

The End!!!
